International Standards For Reporting

Recommendation 20 Reporting of Suspicious Transactions

If a financial institution suspects or has reasonable grounds to suspect that: funds are the proceeds of a criminal activity, or are related to terrorist financing, • it should be required, by law, to report promptly its suspicions to the financial intelligence unit (FIÚ)".

The reporting of suspicious and unusual transactions and activities is regarded as an essential element of the anti-money laundering and combating the financing of terrorism regime for every country

USING SOURCE OF FUNDS OR WEALTH INFORMATION

Where does he or she work?

What sector or industry are they employed in/ run business in

Can you expect cross border flows of money. If so, which countries & currencies

Is this the only means of income. What about other business activities

How much income/ turnover will flow through the account monthly

Is there any anticipated ad-hoc sums of money, e.g. bonuses or dividends

- It is critical to obtain meaningful, comprehensive & accurate source of funds / wealth information about a client
- This information should be kept up to date at reasonable interactions with clients/ on a defined periodic basis
- This will help in STR alert investigation to make sense of suspicious activity

METHODS OF MONITORING

Manual Monitoring Processes

- Considered when volumes are low
- Dependent on thorough ongoing training & awareness
- Requires appropriate quality assurance
- Not suitable for growing businesses
- Not ideal for complex environments
- Although economical, resources & potential work may become expensive

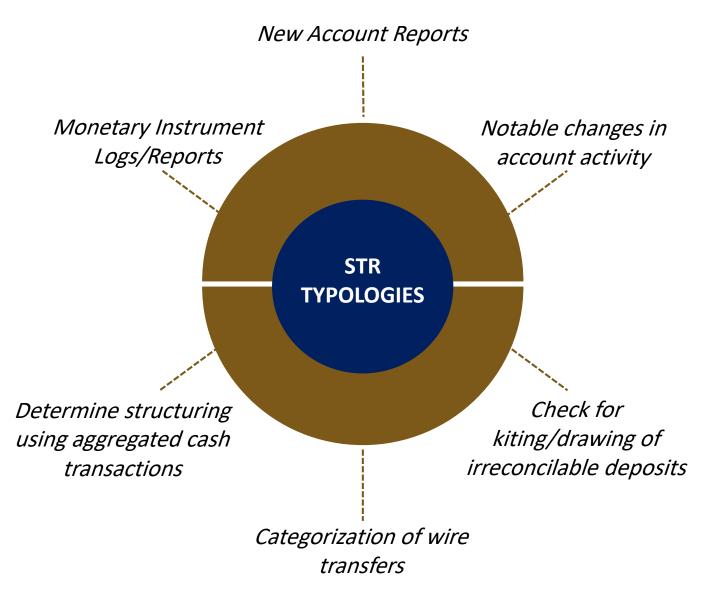

VS

Expensive & complex to implement

- Ensures consistency in monitoring logic
- Reduces human dependency and room for error
- Customizable commensurate with evolving business risks
- Requires rigorous governance & control
- Should be business-wide otherwise ineffective

TYPOLOGIES IN STRs

A typical AML/CFT Program includes:

- Procedures for the identification of suspicious or unusual transactions and/or activity using information derived from TMS alerts, customer KYCs, etc.
- Documented assessments & investigations of STR instances
- Periodic reporting of STR filings to Senior Management and/or Board of Directors (BoD)
- Adequate & ongoing AML/CFT training programmes for personnel

STRs

KEY ISSUES ARISING FROM THE FINANCIAL INSTUTITON SECTOR

- Deficiencies with Customer Segmentation
- Deficiencies or inadequacies with typology assessments
- Deficiencies in the TMS alert workflow, including:
 - Lack of or poor training
 - Poor guidelines and procedures for alerts clearing (some of which did not define SLAs and investigation timeframes)
 - Lack of an automated risk scoring model for the prioritization of alerts
- Inadequate or poor AML/CFT training
- Weaknesses in Policies & Procedures
- Defensive STR reporting
- Multiple profiles for the same customer impacting quality of TMS output, as well as detection and reporting of STRs to the FIU
- Manual identification of unusual/suspicious transactions for certain activities

- Weak controls (including for mapping across TMS) to detect money laundering & terrorism financing activities
- Insufficient product coverage and scenario tuning in TMS
- KYC data quality & completeness issues which impacted the quality of TMS output

- Delays in alerts closure and/or reporting STRs
- Hibernation strategy (hibernation low/medium risk cases) adopted post backlog issues leading to potentially unreported unusual/suspicious activity
- Lack of clear justifications and articulation of investigations to address the underlying STs
